Marcia sent this information to USGS in response to their specific questions regarding the status of various species. Looks as though the AMOY will be listed by the state sometime during 2005.

AMOYs were unanimously recommended for listing as Special Concern in NC at our last meeting in October. I feel confident that this recommendation will be accepted, but it usually takes 6 months to a year for the change to be made.

Marcia,

No, that sounds right. Their status as listed as Significantly Rare in the 2004 List with a ranking of S3B and S4N. There was recently a meeting to review the status of some species. Dave is a member of that bird committee and I think there was some discussion about the status of AMOYs, but I'm not sure if anything will be changed. Dave, do you know if there are any plans to change the status of AMOYs?

Sue - Did you say that AMOYs got some additional status on the NC listing - all I see is S3B, S4N - is this the most up to date? Thx
