All--

Attached is the review draft of the pilot shorebird monitoring work the network did at CAHA in 2006/2007. It has been revised based on comments from initial reviewers, and we have added some more information based on my discussion with Mike Murray earlier in the week.

This is going out for peer review today as well, with a requested turnaround time of 30 days, but both reviewers have said they'd likely get it done sooner. My intent is to rapidly turn this around and get it published so that you are no longer looking at a draft version. By all means, if you have any questions or comments please send them to me so that we can get them addressed or clarified.

We are on target for a Feb 10th date for the protocol to go out for peer review as well.

Additionally, we are nearing completion of the shorebird monitoring "portal" on the network's intranet site. This will be a one-stop shop for data entry as well as up-to-the-minute analysis and reporting. I will be sending out more info on this next week...

Thanks, and have a good weekend, all.

Joe.
