

0023630

From: Pete_Benjamin@fws.gov
To: Smyre, Elizabeth A; Biddlecome, Bill; Brittingham, Cathy; Broili, Thayer; Bryant, Mike; Coleman, Clarence; Cox, David R.; Deaton, Anne; Gledhill-earley, Renee; Gregson, Jim; Hoadley, Jim; Huggett, Doug; Jordan, Gary; Lucas, Ron; Matthews, Kathy; McLendon, Scott; Militscher, Chris; Murray, Mike; Sechler, Ron; Stewart, Dennis; Wainwright, David; Wilson, Travis W.; Winslow, Sara; Wrenn, Brian; Yamamoto, Brian F; Hanson, Robert P; Mabry, Virginia G
Subject: DOI Adaptive Management Technical Guide
Date: 05/22/2009 08:37 AM

Below is the link to the DOI Adaptive Management Website where upon (in the bottom right corner) you will find the Department's Adaptive Management Technical Guide. I would draw the group's attention to Chapter 2 which identifies the conditions under which the application of Adaptive Management is, and is not, advisable. I'll let y'all decide for yourselves whether you think Adaptive Management presents itself as a useful tool for our little situation, but as noted yesterday I have my reservations.

<http://www.doi.gov/initiatives/AdaptiveManagement/index.html>

Pete Benjamin
Field Supervisor
Raleigh Field Office
U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service
(919) 856-4520 x 11