Hi Mike,

fyi...to answer your question from our call last week...I checked with Phil Selleck and he says that OMB will also look at the final rule before it's published to see what changes, if any, have been made from the proposed rule, and at the preamble to see how we have responded to significant comments.

Also, Phil suggested that you send him a short email describing the process and information required for getting the permit. He suggested a one step process where the ORV owner would fill in on the permit itself name, address and VIN number and sign the acknowledgement that they've watched the video and read and understand the rules and agree to follow them and understand that violations may result in revocation of the permit. This would eliminate the step of having the ORV owner fill out a separate application with the same information, and would be less likely to bring the Paperwork Reduction Act notice and comment requirements into play for the rule. Once Phil has your email he can give us a final determination on that.

PHIL: if I've muddled what you said, please correct. Thanks.

Sandy
