I have no objection to removing the info. on strandings as it was initially meant to be internal info. I also have no objection to substantially reducing other info. in the report since the initial intent of the report was to be internal management info., not a public info./PR tool. My opinion is that the more info. that we release, the more certain groups and individuals will use it to complain, etc. Anyway, this is food for thought for next year. We certainly have an opportunity ochange our format once the consent decree is no longer in place.

Finally, I don't care what "they" say Cyndy, we love you.

Good morning Mike,

It would seem appropriate that since NPS shows a list of dead turtles and mammals which have died elsewhere in the resource monitor report that a list of mammals and reptiles killed each week by NPS should also be included. The list of those stranded are listed above the so called violations of resource closures lead the uninformed to think that someone in this seashore is to blame. There is not a reason for that list to be there! There is all the reason in the world for the trapper's killings to be listed.

I also think there is a serious lack of management being applied to your so called information officer. How can everybody in my community not like this person and yet you support her entirely. The communication gap between my community is simply too great for management to ignore and the reason is transparent to all.

Have a great holiday,

Bob Eakes
