Hey Mike,

You miss my point. Ms Holda may be the best and so on but if she cannot communicate without insult with my community then she is worthless. I deal daily with many of the issues of this seashore and a constant criticism from all is this exact issue.

Thanks,

Bob Eakes

Hi Bob,

I apologize for the belated response and hope you had a good 4th of July weekend. I received your message and acknowledge your concerns. In the weekly Resources Management (RM) report, there is no connection implied between the listings of sea turtle strandings and closure intrusions; however, I will ask the RM staff to re-evaluate the report content during the off-season and consider your suggested changes and additions. Regarding the public affairs specialist, Cyndy is one of the most dedicated NPS employees I have ever worked with. As the "messenger", she is sometimes blamed or criticized unfairly for the decision(s) of the agency or for the content of reports prepared by others. I agree that good communications is important, particularly on a contentious issue such as ORV management, and will look for ways to improve our communications program as we transition from the consent decree to implementation of the ORV plan.

Best regards,

Good morning Mike,

It would seem appropriate that since NPS shows a list of dead turtles and mammals which have died elsewhere in the resource monitor report that a list of mammals and reptiles killed each week by NPS should also be included. The list of those stranded are listed above the so called violations of resource closures lead the uninformed to think that someone in this seashore is to blame. There is not a reason for that list to be there! There is all the reason in the world for the trapper's killings to be listed.

I also think there is a serious lack of management being applied to your so called information officer. How can everybody in my community not like this person and yet you support her entirely. The communication gap between my community is simply too great for management to ignore and the reason is transparent to all.

Have a great holiday,

Bob Eakes
