Hello Patrick,

I was unable to open the first attachment. Don't know why but.

On the turtle nighttime restrictions I hope all of us can understand that there was one nest documented last year by CHNSRA staff which was not found or located. Both USFWS and NCWRC staff, with no science, translated this to 6 to 8 nest not being found and then some of our members translated that to 20 or more nest not being found.

So far, no science has been rendered for our area showing anything except the application of percentages and precautionary approaches. I would assume that both Pete and David could not provide the info they said they had in hand.
